Maximilian's Trial Postponed—The Surrender Trial.

BUFFALO, June 18.

The New-York State Temperance Society commenced their quarterly meeting in city this morning with, but a small attendance. The President of the Society had been detained by sickness in his family, L. Perkins, Vice President, presided. A large number of delegates including Horace Greeley are expected to-morrow.

NEW YORK, June 18.

The Herald has the following—

Galveston, Texas, June 18
 Advices from Queretaro on June 1st, state that the trial of Maximilian, Miramora & Marquese was nominally postponed until the 4th, but really until after the fall of the empire of Mexico and Vera Cruz. Maximilian in better health, and hopeful.

The damage to the track of the Union Pacific Railroad by the recent flood has been repaired. A large amount of mail matter has in consequence accumulated at Junction City and Salina. At Fort Hayes the 11th inst., the water was 20 feet deep the occupants of the Fort have been compelled to remove to the roofs of the buildings.

ings. Six soldiers and one citizen were drowned. General Hancock is engaged selecting another site for the fort on high ground ten miles from the present one.

WASHINGTON, June 19.

The trial of Surratt was resumed.
Judge Fisher said that on Monday a question was raised requesting the Court to order the prosecution to disclose to the defence names of their witnesses. He had reflected upon the subject and could find no authority that would allow him to make such an order. The matter was to a great extent within the discretion of the Court, but it appeared to him that to pursue the course suggested by the defence would be taking the management of the case from the prosecution and would, by disclosing the names of

He could see no good reason why the order should be granted. Judge Fisher decided adversely for the application made by the counsel for the defence that they be allowed to recall two witnesses Reid for cross examination after another witness not named here shall have arrived.

WASHINGTON, June 18.—The Cabinet held another meeting, which lasted over five hours, and, while it was as warm and exciting as has been rumored about town this evening, it is learned from an authoritative source that the discussion was earnest and vigorous. The question under consideration was the contemplated cedure in the matter of restoring the Southern officials displaced by Generals Fox, Sickles, Sheridan and Schofield. The form of a General's order, directed to each Military Commander, was suggested and discussed, while the issuance of a special letter of instruction was also intimated as the more proper course, and several members seemed to lay great stress on this particular procedure.

to be observed in reinstating these officials in Gen. Sheridan's district. It was found that he made some twelve removals of civil officials, including the two State Judges in Texas, and it was urged that an order be made revoking the removal in each instance. But whatever may be the proceeding in regard to covering all the cases, it is enough, perhaps, haps, that the simple fact be specifically and authentically announced that the President and all of his Cabinet and Secretary Stan have decided that these officials shall be reinstated, and whatever may be the form the order agreed on, it will be issued within the next day or two in an official form.

The Surratt trial to-day was equally important as the proceedings of yesterday.

colored servant employed in Mrs. Surratt's family on the day of the assassination testified to seeing John Surratt in the house the night of the assassination, and related incidents to sustain her declaration. Sergeant Dye, who testified yesterday, was through a scorching cross-examination, but he sternly adhered to his previous evidence that Surratt was with Booth in front press, June 12, 1888.

SINGULAR RAILROAD ACCIDENT. The

An accident occurred on the South Sea Railroad, a short distance this side of Lynnhaven, yesterday morning. A gentleman from this city, who was aboard at the time, furnished us with the following interesting account of the occurrence: The passenger car of the Chesapeake and Atlantic Coast Ferry Company, which was en route from Lynnhaven to Washington, was passing through the tunnel at the time the accident occurred. The car was passing through the tunnel at the time the accident occurred. The car was passing through the tunnel at the time the accident occurred.

of the down train, in which were more than forty persons, ran off the track in turning a curve about four miles above Genoa Station. At first the car was thrown into the air, and was plunging into the earth prodigiously, but the engine so jerked it back to the rails, and on them thumped for some time. The jolting was not very pleasant, it is true, but having no
